INSIDE THE 16TH EDITION OF THE REPORT CARD

This marks the 16th year of publication for the annual Rochester Business Journal Schools Report Card. From the start, it has been our intent to provide vital information on public and private schools while steering clear of subjective analysis.

Our approach has evolved since this publication debuted in 2005. The first Report Card examined only Monroe County schools. We added a separate edition for schools in Ontario County in the third year. Nine years ago, we merged both into a combined publication for the two counties.

More change came in 2014, when we significantly revamped the approach we take to assessing the schools’ performance. Performance benchmarks for academic achievement and effective use of taxpayers’ dollars became the chief focus.

The following list of frequently asked questions explains in detail how and why we compiled and presented the information as we have in this year’s edition.

Why do you rank the schools by student performance and other measures?

At the start 15 years ago, we considered creating a weighted system of ranking the schools based on a mix of test scores and diploma rates — and decided not to do so. Such rankings no doubt would have generated headlines. We concluded, however, that any rating formula would be arbitrary and prone to unfair qualitative assessments.

For a number of years, we asked readers to draw their own conclusions about how much weight to give each measure of academic performance or cost-effectiveness. Admittedly, it was not a reader-friendly approach. Comparing districts or schools required some heavy lifting. With the 2014 edition we simplified our approach, adding rankings for a range of performance benchmarks to make comparisons easy. From Regents diplomas and SAT scores to elementary school test results, these charts allow parents and taxpayers to compare districts and schools.

We still believe, however, that you are the best judge of how much weight to give each measure of academic performance or cost-effectiveness.

What other highlights will I find?

We have information on school taxes and district spending, as well as data on superintendent and teacher pay. Last year we added data on Regents Common Core math and English exams.

Where do you get the test-result data?

Our primary source is the state Education Department. Schools have the opportunity to review the information before it is released publicly. We use the most recently available numbers. For some tests, results were provided by individual schools. Unless otherwise noted, the data in this edition are for the 2018-19 school year and were released this spring. All percentages are rounded to the nearest whole percentage point.

Why do some schools have no test results?

Some schools are listed in a particular category but do not administer tests common to most of the schools in that category. In other cases, the number of students taking the test was fewer than required for reporting standards.

Even with all the data you provide on the schools and the rankings that have been added, it’s still not clear to me which district would be best for my kids.

We say this every year: Parents must assess numerous factors in making choices among school districts or between public and private education. What’s important for one child — special education offerings or sports or music programs — may not be for another. Tax rates matter too; just ask any property owner. There’s no formula that can provide a clear answer. But this publication contains a wealth of key information on the schools in Monroe and Ontario counties, and we think it can help you reach a decision.

I think I found a mistake in the data. Whom should I contact?

Our goal is an error-free Schools Report Card. If you spot incorrect information, please contact me by phone at (585) 232-6922 or by email at bjacobs@bridgetowermedia.com.

DETAILS ON THE SCHOOLS DATA USED IN THIS GUIDE

The 2020 Schools Report Card contains information and data on 27 local school districts, 190 public schools, 15 charter schools, 55 private schools and two regional BOCES – nearly 300 entities in all that together were responsible for educating more than 129,000 students last year.

Categories

School districts are organized alphabetically by county. The material is presented district by district. Profiles of the schools in each district are listed alphabetically by school. Profiles of BOCES and charter schools follow the public schools section for Monroe County.

The private schools section also is organized alphabetically by school. All of the schools are registered with the New York State Department of Education.

Data sources

The sources used to compile the information contained in this publication are: 2019-20 Facts & Figures, published by the Four County School Boards Association.

- 2020 Facts & Figures, published by the Monroe County School Boards Association.
- New York State School and District Report Cards and other reports for school year 2018-19 from the state Department of Education (NYSED).
- New York State Non-Public School Comprehensive Information Reports for school year 2018-19.
- 2018-2019 Annual Reports available from the NYSED’s Charter School Office.

- the U.S. Census Bureau and individual schools and districts, including publicly-available documents on their websites.

Definitions

The following definitions of terms used in the district and school profiles are organized as they appear on the page:

Enrollment: Enrollments for districts and schools are 2019 figures reported by NYSED.

Spending per pupil: Total 2018-19 school district expenditures divided by enrollment.

True tax rate: Per $1,000 of assessed property value.

Regents diploma data: For the 2018-19 school year.

School district population: Figures from the most recent U.S. Census Bureau Small Area Income and Poverty Estimates.

Test scores

Public and private school test results are for tests administered in 2017-18. Test scores and exam figures reported at the district level may include students in alternative settings or in special education programs outside the district, which are not included in the figures for individual schools within the district.

- Fourth-grade and eighth-grade English and mathematics exams: Starting in 2013, New York state began administering assessments of student performance based on the new Common Core State Standards for English language arts and mathematics. The state reports test scores using a four-tier system. Tests graded at NYS Performance Levels 3 and 4 indicate that the student is proficient in standards for his or her grade.
- Fourth- and eighth-grade science exams: Tests graded at NYS Performance Levels 3 - 4 indicated that the student met standards.
- Regents and Regents Common Core exams: These tests are administered to high school students. The state scores the exams on a 100-point scale, and reports scores for schools and districts using either four or five tiers. In either case, tests with scores of 65 and higher are included in assessments for the awarding of Regents diplomas. We report results for a representative selection of Regents exams in four different subject areas.

Additional notes

The Chronic Absenteeism Rates chart uses an averaged district rate derived from elementary and high school data reported by NYSED for the 2018-19 school year.

The Teacher Pay chart uses data from the districts and the 2018-19 New York state Basic Educational Data System Personnel Master File.
